DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "comprising" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fujimoto et al.

Fujimoto et al., discloses a sacrificial specimen for monitoring long-term stress that can be used with any related tool such as a pneumatic tool with features of the claimed invention including a stress intensity control portion that can serve as a breaking point of a body, and a stress intensity monitor formed of reference marks (any imaginary point along slit 4 of figure 2), and indicator marks (points b and c), with said indicator marks change position with respect to the each other upon any applied stress, causing misalignment of each point b or c along the direction of the slit 4 (a line which is perpendicular to line bc passing from their center) as shown in figure 2.

Regarding claim 2, points a and d can be considered to be warning marks.

Regarding claim 3, any line passing through the various points (a, b, c, d) makes them correspond line.

Regarding claim 4, the various points can be called dots.

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
